DIT | Photo 14

The 2014 BA Photography graduate exhibition features the photographic projects of fourteen final year students and reflects a diverse range of approaches to contemporary photography and the production of images, demonstrating that where we stand, in terms of representation, is always relational.

These photographers explore themes and issues of both global and local resonance, some travelling long distances to document particular phenomena, others locating themselves close to home to document space and place, the performance of cultural identity and processes of memorialisation. Underpinning all work is an attentiveness to how the photograph records varying states of absence and presence, two registers on which the photographic economy is based.

The 2014 BA Photography graduate exhibition features the work of:
