First-Time Buyers’ Grant is for the Developers’ Back Pocket

Lorcan Sirr
Technological University Dublin, lorcan.sirr@tudublin.ie

Follow this and additional works at: https://arrow.tudublin.ie/beschrecmed
Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation
Sirr, L. (2016) First time buyers’ grant is for the developers’ back pocket. The Sunday Times 02.10.2016.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Surveying and Construction Management at ARROW@TU Dublin. It has been accepted for inclusion in Media by an authorized administrator of ARROW@TU Dublin. For more information, please contact yvonne.desmond@tudublin.ie, arrow.admin@tudublin.ie, brian.widdis@tudublin.ie.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-Share Alike 3.0 License
The founder of Quiet Mark is on a mission to turn down the noise of modern life. Her tip for achieving serenity? Spend an hour a day listening to the birds, she tells Caroline Scott.

Silence is golden

First-time buyers' grant is for the developers' back pocket

O
do the last few weeks, the government has been out in the field to look at the housing market for the first time in years. Perhaps surprisingly, the government has found that the market has not been as bad as the doom-laden forecasts of last year. The first-time buyers' bonus scheme, which was introduced in March, has quickly been filled with success. The government is confident that the scheme will boost the housing market and help young people get on the property ladder.

However, the government's plan is not without its critics. Some believe that the scheme is not going to be enough to solve the housing crisis, and that more needs to be done. Others believe that the government is not doing enough to tackle the issue of affording housing for first-time buyers.

Seatime, who has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

She has been advocating for the rights of the elderly for many years, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people. "They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.

"They need support," she says. "They need help to stay in their homes, to be able to afford the services they need." Seatime has been a long-time advocate for the rights of the elderly, and believes that the government needs to do more to help older people.