Don't Try to Inflate House Prices for the Benefit of the Banks

Lorcan Sirr

Technological University Dublin, lorcan.sirr@tudublin.ie

Follow this and additional works at: https://arrow.tudublin.ie/beschrecmed

Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation

Upmarket city centre apartments are proving increasingly popular with renters and buyers, but there is a shortage of suitable properties. By Grainne Roarty

"We’ve been phenomenally surprised with the demand," said O’Connor. Meanwhile, over on Grafton Street, Mazzi Real Estate Services is looking for a month-to-month, fully furnished property on the fifth floor of a building in the city centre. The house is on the market for €2,000 a month, or €250 a day. It’s quite a big property and it’s only a short walk from the main attractions on Grafton Street.

"There’s a huge demand for living in New York or in different cities around the world. The Galway City apartments are New York loft-style apartments – they’re cool and funky, and that’s what people want. A number of tenants have been introduced over the years to encourage more people into the cities, and to increase the amount of accommodation available," the scheme’s regulations need to be reviewed, including the fact that the resident elements are no longer in rent control. There’s a huge demand for living in New York or different cities around the world. The Galway City apartments are New York loft-style apartments – they’re cool and funky, and that’s what people want. A number of tenants have been introduced over the years to encourage more people into the cities, and to increase the amount of accommodation available.

Our housing crisis is a structural issue with our housing market. There isn’t the same culture and tradition of property well. There isn’t the same culture and tradition of property well. The scheme provides tax incentives to encourage residential development, and residential or commercial, you would be entitled to a tax deduction. Having more people living in the city therefore has a knock-on effect of increasing the amount of accommodation available. The scheme provides tax incentives to encourage residential development, and residential or commercial, you would be entitled to a tax deduction. Having more people living in the city therefore has a knock-on effect of increasing the amount of accommodation available. The scheme provides tax incentives to encourage residential development, and residential or commercial, you would be entitled to a tax deduction. Having more people living in the city therefore has a knock-on effect of increasing the amount of accommodation available. The scheme provides tax incentives to encourage residential development, and residential or commercial, you would be entitled to a tax deduction. Having more people living in the city therefore has a knock-on effect of increasing the amount of accommodation available.