The Future Looks Precarious for New Breed of Long-Term Renters

Lorcan Sirr
Technological University Dublin, lorcan.sirr@tudublin.ie

Follow this and additional works at: https://arrow.tudublin.ie/beschrecmed

Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation
14.02.2016. doi:10.21427/j0rr-q838
WE MAKE an inference often but the property market is a constant conundrum. In the last couple of years, there were real uncertainties and, as always, a degree of uncertainty as to what the future holds. People began to sell their homes as it was uncertain what was coming next. Demand is now higher than ever but uncertainty is still there. There were reduced house prices, and as a result, many buyers are now waiting for a break in the market, to see what will happen before they make their move.

The number of houses being sold is increasing but not by a great deal. Many people are still to sell their homes, and there is a sense of hesitation or uncertainty about what will happen next. People may have a change of heart as the market continues to evolve.

Macroom and the surrounding area have been hit hard by the recent downturn. Many people have lost their jobs, and the local economy is struggling. As a result, there is a sense of uncertainty about the future.

However, the recent increase in house prices has been positive for the local economy. People are now more likely to invest in their homes, and this is helping to boost the local economy. While uncertainty remains, there is a sense of hope for the future.

Linda Daly

SHORTAGE OF HOMES IS RESTING ON THE HORIZON

There are many reasons people are not moving in Ireland today. There are more than 7,000 registered unemployed in Westmeath, which is a significant number, especially when you consider the many businesses in the area. People are also leaving Ireland due to the lack of opportunities and the high cost of living.

In the past, people who wanted to live in the country could easily find a place to rent or buy. However, today, there are many more people who are looking for homes, and the supply of properties is limited.

The National Housing Agency (NHA) has said that the country needs to increase its housing stock by 30,000 units per year. However, this is not happening, and the situation is becoming worse.

The NHA is also concerned about the lack of affordable housing in many areas. Many people are priced out of the market, and this is having a negative impact on their quality of life.

People are becoming more and more desperate to find a place to live, and this is putting a lot of pressure on the housing market. People are even resorting to illegal renting or squatting to get a place to live.

The government has acknowledged the problem and has promised to take action. However, so far, the action has not been sufficient to address the crisis.

The NHA has also said that the government needs to increase its investment in social housing. Many people are waiting many years for social housing, and this is causing them a lot of stress.

The government needs to take urgent action to address the housing crisis. People are struggling to find a place to live, and this is having a negative impact on their lives.

Linda Daly

MARKET WATCH

LIVING ON IRISH WATERS AND MARINAS HAS A RECREATIONAL APPEAL BUT THERE ARE PITFALLS TO CONSIDER — AND BOAT-DWELLERS CAN STILL FALL OUT WITH THE NEW, WRITES CANN MOLLOY

We are all familiar with the long and winding river of life, but have you ever considered living on a boat? It’s not as unusual as you might think, and it can be a unique and fulfilling way to live. However, it’s important to consider the potential pitfalls before making such a decision.

The first thing to consider is the cost. boating can be expensive, and it’s important to factor in the cost of running a boat, including fuel, insurance, and maintenance.

Another consideration is the maintenance of the boat. You’ll need to be responsible for the upkeep of the boat and ensure it’s in good condition.

Finally, it’s important to consider the legal requirements. You’ll need to ensure you’re following all the relevant laws and regulations.

The stream of new customer information is always changing, and it’s important to stay updated with the latest developments. You can find more information online or by contacting your local boating authority.

Cann Molloy

‘WE FEEL CLOSER TO NATURE LIVING ON A BARGE’

Mary McInerney and her husband have lived aboard Froya, a 50ft barge, for 13 years. Come St Patrick’s Day, they will start cruising. The plan is to do the Shannon route, starting in Limerick.

Mary McInerney, 50, and her husband, Joe, 59, are both from Waterford. They live on Froya, a tired and beat-up looking barge, which they have been living on for the past 13 years. They have two children, both aged 25.

Mary McInerney told The Sunday Times: “We feel closer to nature living on a barge.”

Mary McInerney and Joe McInerney plan to use it as a pop-up restaurant.

Price Watch: Co Waterford

Waterford properties

Carrigeenlea

Tramore

Ferrybank

Dunmore East

Waterford

€75,000

€75,000

€75,000

€75,000

€76,500

€150,000

€160,000

€340,000

€1,500 to €3,500, depending on the same place, for more than five days

Waterways Ireland

A heritage bill that would have intended to cater for tourists, so the facilities at Hazelhatch, they were to travel to a pumping out station once a a vessel and try it out for a year.

If you opt to build your own boat, it is cheaper to have the shell made and do the fitting out yourself, but this is a time-consuming process. You also have to get used to living in a confined space, with little room to move around.

In 10 or 20 years’ time.

In Sallins, there has been some tension between the local history groups, their hulls are worn thin after years of

The first thing to consider is the cost. Boating can be expensive, and it’s important to factor in the cost of running a boat, including fuel, insurance, and maintenance.

Another problem is a lack of privacy. People who are used to having space to themselves may not like the idea of being in close quarters with others.

It is lovely and warm because it is

A boat that hasn’t got adequate to Marlenes. “If you are having a shell made, you need to make sure it is

If you opt to build your own boat, it is cheap to have the shell made and do the

In 10 or 20 years’ time,

Another boat owner, Marlon

A ship that has been in the water to nature living

‘Wefeel closer to

It is lovely and warm because it is

The stream of new customer information is always changing, and it’s important to stay updated with the latest developments. You can find more information online or by contacting your local boating authority.

The stream of new customer information is always changing, and it’s important to stay updated with the latest developments. You can find more information online or by contacting your local boating authority.

The stream of new customer information is always changing, and it’s important to stay updated with the latest developments. You can find more information online or by contacting your local boating authority.