No Landlord Exodus but Still the Same old Eviction Problems

Lorcan Sirr
Technological University Dublin, lorcan.sirr@tudublin.ie

Follow this and additional works at: https://arrow.tudublin.ie/beschrecmed

Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-Share Alike 3.0 License
Where sheep safely grazed

The livestock may be gone but there's still plenty of green around this home in Blackrock, Co Dublin, writes Edhine Dunne.

When Mary and Jim Conway bought the house, they had no idea the place was about to become a bit of a waste,” says the two of us now, so memories remain.

“Which is on the market come in.”

those at the back — hence all the short entrance almost as big and bright as the of stairs between floors and a rear

dark building.

back of the house is a soothing vista, your studded lawn. There may no longer be dotted with mature trees, most of which

The sheep may be gone but there's still plenty of green around this home in Blackrock, Co Dublin, writes Edhine Dunne.

When Mary and Jim Conway bought the house, they had no idea the place was about to become a bit of a waste,” says the two of us now, so memories remain.

“Which is on the market come in.”

those at the back — hence all the short entrance almost as big and bright as the of stairs between floors and a rear

dark building.

back of the house is a soothing vista, your studded lawn. There may no longer be dotted with mature trees, most of which

The sheep may be gone but there's still plenty of green around this home in Blackrock, Co Dublin, writes Edhine Dunne.

When Mary and Jim Conway bought the house, they had no idea the place was about to become a bit of a waste,” says the two of us now, so memories remain.

“Which is on the market come in.”

those at the back — hence all the short entrance almost as big and bright as the of stairs between floors and a rear

dark building.

back of the house is a soothing vista, your studded lawn. There may no longer be dotted with mature trees, most of which

The sheep may be gone but there's still plenty of green around this home in Blackrock, Co Dublin, writes Edhine Dunne.

When Mary and Jim Conway bought the house, they had no idea the place was about to become a bit of a waste,” says the two of us now, so memories remain.

“Which is on the market come in.”

those at the back — hence all the short entrance almost as big and bright as the of stairs between floors and a rear

dark building.

back of the house is a soothing vista, your studded lawn. There may no longer be dotted with mature trees, most of which

The sheep may be gone but there's still plenty of green around this home in Blackrock, Co Dublin, writes Edhine Dunne.

When Mary and Jim Conway bought the house, they had no idea the place was about to become a bit of a waste,” says the two of us now, so memories remain.

“Which is on the market come in.”

those at the back — hence all the short entrance almost as big and bright as the of stairs between floors and a rear

dark building.

back of the house is a soothing vista, your studded lawn. There may no longer be dotted with mature trees, most of which