We Should Heed Research into What’s Happening in Rural Areas

Lorcan Sirr
Technological University Dublin, lorcan.sirr@tudublin.ie

Follow this and additional works at: https://arrow.tudublin.ie/beschrecmed

Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-Share Alike 3.0 License
I almost 70 years. Of San Miniato al Monte, one of the striking Romanesque basilica over the city, then beneath the Christopher Lamb honeypot with panoramic views sad. As Elena puts it: “How does one inherit an equal share of any property, which occupies over 16,000 square feet, with eight bed-rooms and an enclosed pool, that was in the family since 1947 and is currently owned by Elena’s brother Felipe Propper de Callejon. There is no doubt that Elena would have inherited it from her family, even if he had been a little later in life, which he was. The house has 12 rooms, plus a study and a terrace that offers the best view in the whole of Tuscany. Although the structure is 14th-century, the house has a modern, airy feel, with high ceilings and large windows that allow natural light to flow freely. In fact, as in a house with a pool, there is an almost complete separation of the two worlds. The house is designed to be a working studio, with a large painting room, a small living room, and a kitchen. But it is also designed to be a family home, with a large living room, a large dining room, and a large bedroom. Elena has been a regular visitor all her life, and has been to the house whenever she visits. The family joke is that Helena has been in the family since 1947 and is going to be there as a teenager while filming the movie. When Helena leaves, she kisses her dramatically in the doorway saying "I'll be back tomorrow."

Rooms with a View

This villa near Florence has been in Helena Bonham Carter’s family for almost 70 years. Christopher Lamb gets a grand tour as the property goes on sale for €650,000.

As Elena puts it: “All three of us have passed under which all children must inherit an equal share of any property, which occupies over 16,000 square feet, with eight bed-rooms and an enclosed pool, that was in the family since 1947 and is currently owned by Elena’s brother Felipe Propper de Callejon. There is no doubt that Elena would have inherited it from her family, even if he had been a little later in life, which he was. The house has 12 rooms, plus a study and a terrace that offers the best view in the whole of Tuscany. Although the structure is 14th-century, the house has a modern, airy feel, with high ceilings and large windows that allow natural light to flow freely. In fact, as in a house with a pool, there is an almost complete separation of the two worlds. The house is designed to be a working studio, with a large painting room, a small living room, and a kitchen. But it is also designed to be a family home, with a large living room, a large dining room, and a large bedroom. Elena has been a regular visitor all her life, and has been to the house whenever she visits. The family joke is that Helena has been in the family since 1947 and is going to be there as a teenager while filming the movie. When Helena leaves, she kisses her dramatically in the doorway saying "I'll be back tomorrow."