Renters are here to stay, help them feel at home

LINDA DAIL MARKET WATCH

When a multinational company moves a high-profile move to Ireland, it will want to make sure that it understands what it is moving into. It means that people who rent from landlords are more likely to get questions about how to register with a doctor and how to apply for a GNIB card, which costs €30. The biggest challenge is coming to terms with Irish washer-dryers. “It’s a hand-holding service where you are learning about things like the rules of the road and the local club,” Allen said.
