JOURNAL OF FRANCO-IRISH STUDIES

About This Journal

The Journal of Franco-Irish Studies (JOFIS) is the peer-reviewed journal of the National Centre for Franco-Irish Studies (NCFIS) and the Association for Franco-Irish Studies (AFIS) at Technological University Dublin. The journal is open access and will publish two issues per year. One of those issues will be published each autumn, and linked, whenever possible, to postgraduate research seminars held at TU Dublin. The other, a themed issue published in the spring, will be based on a Call for Papers covering a broad scope of disciplinary approaches in the field of studies connected to Ireland and/or France. Spontaneous submissions are always welcome.

The journal is free for authors and the editorial staff comply with the code of conduct of COPE: the Committee on Publication Ethics.

Submissions

The journal welcomes manuscripts in English or French. Submissions must be original work by the author. Authors must own the copyright to the work or provide proof of authorisation by the copyright owner with the submission.

Manuscripts will be pre-screened to ensure that are within the scope of the journal and the Call for Papers where applicable. All articles will undergo a double-blind peer review process. Submissions must be made via the journal website.
