The Deserted Village

Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
With blossomed furze unprofitably gay,
There in his noisy mansion, skill'd to rule

The village master taught his little school;
A man severe he was and stern to view,

I knew him well and every truant knew;
Well had the boding tremblers learn to trace

The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they laugh'd with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper circling round,
Conveyed the dismal tidings when he frowned;

Yet he was kind, or if severe in aught,
The love he bore to learning was in fault;
The village all declared how much he knew;

'Twas certain he could write and cypher too;
Lands he could measure, terms and tides presage,
And even the story ran that he could gauge.
In arguing too, the parson owned his skill,
For e'en tho' vanquished, he could argue still;
While words of learned length, and thundering sound,

Amazed the glazing rustics ranged around,
and still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
that one small head could carry all he knew.

But past is all his fame. The very spot
Where many a time he triumphed, is forgot.
